

REMARKS

Once again the present application has been carefully studied in view of the outstanding Office Action dated June 3, 2004, and new claims 7-12 are hereby submitted. An initial response to this Office Action was mailed to the Patent and Trademark Office on September 3, 2004.

As described in the specification as originally filed and as clearly shown in the drawings, adhesive dots 38 are strategically placed inside the carton to releasably secure the packs in place and thereby prevent the packs from falling out of the smaller retail units when the carton is separated along the score lines (specification page 7, lines 19-21). Depending upon the particular location of the perforated score lines of a specific carton blank, the glue dots inside the blank are arranged adjacent the score lines. Accordingly, when the formed carton is separated into the smaller retail units, the packs adjacent the score lines are held in place by the glue dots.

Claims 7-12 define patentable matter for the same reasons set forth in the initial response to the outstanding Office Action. Additionally, the feature of strategically located glue dots on the inside of a carton is not disclosed or suggested by the prior art of record taken alone or in combination with one another.
